Hear Our Mighty Moa ROAR!! (Ryan Evans) e Inglewood premier rugby team capped off an outstanding son with a commanding 23-0 win over Coastal to take out the Taranaki rughy CMK premier division title the Taranslar uply CMK premier division title. After finishing the regular season in top spot, and unbeaten in the competition's second round, the shut-out performance in horrible conditions at TET Stadium was led by the dominance of the forward pack and an intelligent ticking game. It was Inglewood's first premier trophy since 2014.

Issue 295 Durham Women's Institute Visit Stratford (Christine Fitz Patrick) Percy Thompson Gallery in Stratford has the most stunning "Mataraki – Deep Space: A View of the Stars and Beyond" display of photos in psychedelic hues. These amazing high-tech colourful images were captured by astronomer and Massey University Lecturer Stephen Chadwick Lwas impressed University Lecturer Stephen Chadwick. I was impressed at the detail. The universe is so incredibly beautiful. Of course we also had to have a wee look at some of the lovely arts and crafts next door in the shop where one of our members was on duty. The locals are so talented. Our next venue was the Fenton Street Arts Collective.

managed by Jo Sallard who is a portraif/gurative Artist and Stuart Greenfull who is a published author. They lovingly renovated this heritage building to create a popular destination for those who also appreciate art, history, go and good espress. An inimate back room, next to the distillery, provided a perfect space where we could hold our meeting and enjoy a delicious afternoon tea after a bit of a tour of the building. It's a very confortable and trasted place which has built a great reputation for doing finings well. They certainly made us they evidence and we'd all be keen to visit again
