

$13,000 Fright Night at the Maize Maze (v/n Adamson)

The Ingwood Lions Fright Night which was held at the Maize Maze on Friday night, has proved once again to be a very popular event with over 1000 people going through the maize. Great to see the numbers of families that came. A huge number of people was involved in running this event. With safety being top priority we had six volunteer security, Ingwood Kyokushin Karate Club checking vaccine passes and general track security, Waitara Fire Brigade helping out, Presco Hire Lighting who supplied lights, 15 Lions members manning the Eltopos, counting people in and counting people out to limit the number of people in the maize at any one time, spotters keeping an eye on everything from the tower. Then of course the 40 scarecrows. So a big huge thank you. Without all your support an event like this could not be run. The screams and laughter that could be heard from the Maize meant that everyone had a great night. If you haven't been out to the Maize Maze you had better get organized and bring the family and friends out for a visit. With colder nights we are having, the maize maze season is coming to an end. Keep an eye on our Ingwood Lions Maize Maze Facebook page for updates. For any enquiries about the Maize Maze contact Dwayne 027 886 5933 or for Lions contact George 027 442 3383.

Garden Clues with Sue (Sue Hanks)

Phone 756 8009

Officially Autumn has now arrived, and our lovely weather continues, certainly a bit of rain is required for the garden. You will be now harvesting your summer crops, if you should have an abundance of fresh vegetables everyday, if you planted the right crops. Make sure, you keep planting all the salad vegetables like lettuce, spring onions, spinach, and definitely think about the winter garden now, if you have space for planting out new crops. The only problem are the white butterflies, abundant at present, which you will need to protect your fresh seedlings from. With a bit of Kiwi ingenuity, use bamboo, wooden stakes, plastic pipe, or anything you have laying around, cover it with clear plastic, shade or frost cloth, to deter them from landing and laying eggs on your seedlings. It doesn't have to be a permanent structure, use something to keep them at bay, until the season changes, and they fly away.

Pots that had been looking amazing with lots of colour and fresh growth, may have taken a hit with either too much wind, or now too little water, so remove, replace with new potting mix, and plant for autumn colour. There is always a great choice, and seems like having bright, colourful, cherry potted containers to look out to, might make a difference to our happy demeanours. We love helping our customers, so if you're not sure, or unsure you want to come shopping due to the Covid situation, then just give us a call, and we can get your order ready, and deliver free to your door around Ingwood.

Shop local, shop Hammer Hardware, and you can still have the most amazing garden around!

We would hope, therefore, that you will excuse the fact that the Moa Mail may have a different look now and again. We are doing our utmost to learn ten years of experience over a few weeks with back up from two former editors. Be assured we will endeavour to produce the paper each fortnight with your advertisements and articles. Please continue to send us your club reports along with any photos you may be happy for us to publish. We would also like to acknowledge that there are businesses and schools in our community who are currently dealing with the fact that Omicron is affecting them. We hope you all stay safe and recover soon.

Restore PG Nops Reserve (Leigh Honnor)

It was a warm sunny Sunday for our February working bee. Seven volunteers spent a couple of hours clearing the Wandersley Wylly, Greater Bird weed, Monbretha and Aparagathas in the area between the first bridge and Tawa Street. We left several large mounds of Wandersley Wylly for New Plymouth District Council Parks staff to spray along with five wool sacks of weeds for collection. We removed a sack load of rubbish from underneath the weeds including an old water cylinder. The next working bee is Sunday 27 March, 1.00-3.00pm. Meet at the Tawa Street entrance. All welcome. If you would like to know more about our activities call Neil Cheeseman on 027 221 7712.

Sporting Trials (Sidney Hirst)

New Zealand held their first round of the New Zealand points series recently near Ingwood.

The venue was well suited to this time of year with very long lush grass to limit traction, preventing the vehicles from getting too steep with the likelihood of rearing over backwards. It also made the sections very challenging for the drivers. Young Cameron Hunger was going very well, sharing Sid Hirst's car, even beating Sid on a couple of sections. Kevin Silverwood from Cambridge was struggling in the morning but was coming to grips with it in the afternoon. Results: First Sid Hirst, Second Cameron Hunger, Third Gordon Marshall.

Everett Park News

East Taranaki Environment Collective has some exciting news. They along with the Department of Conservation and Pukerangia Ihu will be working together to bring Everett Park a new lease of life and to protect the reserves ecosystem and biodiversity. Everett Park Scenic Reserve which most of you know is 8km east of Ingwood. Their plan is to have an effective pest trapping plan to help protect native species. Norfolk school children have been helping by putting in several tracking tunnels as well as some deer cards to help reduce the number of rats and possum around the reserve. This is all being done to use the results to plan and implement the best trapping program and the best way forward for all involved. It is great to see the community involvement and volunteers working along side these organisations that are all for looking after the beautiful river and surrounding bush that generations of Ingwood families and the wider Taranaki Community have utilised over the years.

Inglewood Cue Theatre (Karyn Gwerder)

There are some strange comings and goings happening at Inglewood's Cue Theatre. They are rehearsing their next production 'Crude Song' by New Zealand playwright Albert Bick. This award winning play directed by Sharron Read takes storyelling to another level. This play relies heavily on technology to create a mysterious and creepy atmosphere.

Sharron Read is very grateful for the support of some of our local creatives. Lighting, sound and special effects star alongside the talented and committed cast: Laurie Neville, Bicka-May Hitchcock, Shae Trownsdon, Kate Hansen, Christine King and Michelle Brougham.

Sharron believes this play will offer audiences a new experience in theatre. She hopes they will walk away a little bit transformed, a little bit uplifted, questioning what was and thoroughly entertained.

'A nunery is the setting for this chilling play. Bick wrote it after he heard about a mass children's grave being discovered in Tuam, Ireland.

Two young women, Hahana and Angie find themselves desperately seeking accommodation at an isolated convent, that was once a home for unmarried mothers, in the middle of nowhere as they travel through Ireland on their big OE. Creepy gets even creepier as a mysterious figure known as Briar Faith begins to haunt them, and they must uncover the trauma that he buried in the place's history. Two nuns live alone in the convent, sometimes helped by the local mechanic Bartley. What do these three know and what are they not telling? This story is disturbing, ominous and foreboding.

This play is a bit warty and a lot compelling. Things take an unexpected turn and everyone is forced to confront their realities and come to terms with the roles they play in each other's lives. Slowly fear takes hold as events unfold and the play's curse of revenge seem to hold true and the cast find themselves caught up in a terrifying ghost story.

The play's season is 4th April - 16th April. Tickets can be booked online <https://www.cuetheatre.co.nz/book-online/> or Fun Hot Toy Museum.

Water Runs Clear After $10 million Project
After $10 million and three years of hard work by New Plymouth District Council, Inglewood's water is running clear again. The long-standing issue of discoloured water coming out of the town's taps has been resolved, with one-third of Inglewood's water pipes replaced and the project coming in under budget. Minerals were settling on the bottom of pipes and then being stirred up when they were flushed as part of maintenance. Adding to the problem was the age of the pipes and their cast iron composition.

During the project, long-lasting plastic pipes have replaced 74% of the asbestos concrete pipes, 97% of cast iron pipes and 90% of steel pipes in Inglewood. In all, 15 kilometres (33%) of pipes have been replaced and the number of pipes in very poor condition has been reduced from 24% to just 6%. The final project cost is expected to be $10.6 million, below the planned $10.9 million.

"Our people have a right to expect safe, high quality drinking water from Council," says Mayor Neil Holdom. "Fixing Inglewood's discoloured water is a major project, as we tackle the district's water woes by investing $248 million over the next decade to fix the plumbing." "It's required careful planning, a lot of coordination with residents and businesses, and the patience of locals when their streets were disrupted during construction," he says. "The number of complaints about brown water in the town is almost zero and that is exactly the result we are working towards for locals who have had to endure the issues for a very long time."

In October last year, two $18 million water reservoirs on Henwood and Mountain roads were completed, adding the equivalent of 36,000 full bathtubs to the supply for Bell Block, Lepperton and further north.
