Rasmus Hunt Gains E-Volocity Overall Supreme Champion (Maddison Dagger)

This year marks the fourth time Rasmus Hunt has competed in E-Volocity. He set himself the ambitious goal of building a practical electric dirt bike capable of keeping pace with his friends' 250cc motorcycles, while also still being able to tune the bike down to meet the competition's 2,000-watt limit.

Rasmus drew inspiration from his parents' concern about the safety of traditional dirt bikes. This, combined with the fact that most of his friends ride dirt bikes, and feeling inspired by electric motorcycles such as the Surron Ultra Bee and Stark Varg, drove him to design his own.

Rasmus began securing sponsorship before even discussing the project with his parents, with Cell Supply New Zealand providing 260 Samsung lithium cells valued at over $3,500. Building the 84-volt battery pack from scratch was one of his biggest challenges. Safety while constructing this was a major factor, particularly while assembling the battery from individual lithium cells. The time, care and precision invested in the project resulted in a bike capable of producing an impressive 20,000 watts, equivalent to 27 horsepower. Rasmus entered three of the four E-Volocity events held around New Zealand this year, travelling to Palmerston North, Hamilton and Auckland.

It's another bumper issue, packed with plenty of newsy stories to enjoy.

Inside you'll find updates from projects doing great work for our local flora and fauna, along with our front-page feature on the awesome initiative and invention of high school student Rasmus Hunt. This is truly inspiring. Congratulations, Rasmus!

Congratulations must also be extended to Barbara Kuriger on her very convincing win of her election seat.

On page 10, we provide an update on some of the recent burglary cases. Coincidentally, as I was writing this, I was informed that five of the flower baskets outside Nelson's Bakery have once again been vandalised. Plants have also been stolen from the Fun Ho! garden.

As a small community with limited police resources, we are the eyes and ears of our town. Looking out for one another is something we can all do, and neighbourhood watch starts with each of us. If you have seen or heard anything that could help identify those responsible, report it!

Finally, can you believe it's only six weeks until Christmas? That means there are just three more issues of Moa Mail before the end of the year.

The silly season has officially begun!

Kereru in PG Nops Reserve (Leigh Honnor)

Wonderful news! Kererū are nesting in PG Nops Reserve! Kererū are native pigeons. They raise one chick at a time in a well-hidden notoriously flimsy nest made of twigs and sticks. Both parents incubate the egg, which hatches after about a month. We will be keeping our fingers crossed they are successful.

Kererū are very important to the survival of forests in Aotearoa because they are the only birds left which are big enough to swallow the larger fruits of native trees such as tawa, miro, puriri and karaka. They pass their meal as a dropping which contains a seed and its very own package of fertiliser. This helps seedlings establish in new areas. This role of propagator makes Kererū a 'keystone species' of lowland forests.

The main threats to Kererū are predation by possums and rats, loss and degradation of habitat from invading weeds which smother native species and prevent regeneration. There are predator traps set in PG Nops Reserve which are checked regularly by a NPDC volunteer, and our care group works hard to eliminate unwanted pest plants and replant with natives. With the arrival of spring the weeds are thriving; greater bindweed, Tradescantia, wild cherry, English ivy, wild sycamore, chocolate vine, Montbretia and deadly nightshade. Our fadges are like Pascalls Lolly scramble.

Our last working bee of the year is 1.00-3.00pm Sunday the 29th November. We meet at the Tawa Street entrance. We would love to see you there.

If you would like to know more about our activities call Neil Chesterton on 027 221 7712 or email chesterton@xtra.co.nz

Polish Settlers Book Launch (Graeme Sykes)

The 100-year-old St Andrew's hall was a fitting host last Saturday for the commemoration of 150 years since the first Polish settlers walked into Inglewood. Ray Watembach was master of ceremonies. Polish Ambassador Patryk Blaszczak, with his wife and son attended the event. Barbara Scrivens, assisted by her husband Steven, came from Auckland to launch her book, "Untangling Polish Threads". A history of the Polish Immigrants who helped build early New Zealand. Barbara gave an interesting talk about the challenges of writing the book, stories of the 3,600 first-generation Polish migrants who settled all over New Zealand, and how Inglewood became the largest Polish community in New Zealand.

The event attracted over 60 people. Hamish Crimp, of Heritage Taranaki, later led a walk around Inglewood's historic buildings, helped by the new "Inglewood Heritage Walk" brochure provided by the Inglewood Family History group. Overall, it was an excellent event that created many connections and sold many books. We were fortunate to have Ray from Central Otago and Paul Klemick, author of Poles Down South, from Dunedin.

To all people who love Scottish heritage

Saint Andrew's Day, 10am, Sunday 29th November 2026

St Andrews Hall, 8 Brown St, Inglewood

Come and enjoy the traditional Scottish "Burns supper" in commemoration of the Patron Saint of Scotland, Saint Andrew.

The traditional cooked haggis will be piped into the hall and Gordon Maxwell will say the Robbie Burns ode to the haggis. A light lunch will follow.

Members of the NP and Stratford Pipe Bands will also attend. This event is for people who love Scottish heritage. Bishop Philip will attend the ceremony along with Reverend Robyn.

All are welcome

Rasmus won first place in Drag Racing, Gymkhana, the Endurance Race and Open Class Track Performance. Through his combination of engineering skill, creativity and innovation, Rasmus claimed the title of Overall Supreme Champion at the 2026 E-Volocity Auckland Regional Finals. Although initially concerned about the project's safety, Rasmus's parents are now immensely proud of what he has achieved. His determination, initiative and engineering skills are a source of pride for Inglewood High School and an inspiration to other students to think big and push their own boundaries. Rasmus also acknowledges the support of his sponsors, particularly Cell Supply New Zealand, Moto1 NZ and P1 Moto. The full build process can be found on Instagram at @project_overkill.

Melbourne Cup Fun at Marinoto (Emma Harding)

Marinoto residents recently embraced the excitement of the Melbourne Cup, getting creative with a fabulous collection of handmade hats and fascinators to celebrate the occasion with the help of our lovely staff and nursing students.

With colourful decorations, feathers, flowers and plenty of imagination, residents enjoyed designing their own unique creations in preparation for race day. The activity was a lot of fun and allowed everyone to add a little personal flair.

Creative activities like this provide valuable opportunities to support fine motor skills, stimulate cognitive function and encourage self-expression. Just as importantly, they foster social connection, build confidence, and create a wonderful sense of achievement as residents see their ideas come to life.

We love finding opportunities for everyone to participate in enjoyable activities that celebrate individuality, encourage connection, and add a little joy.

With their beautiful creations ready for the race, our residents proved that Melbourne Cup fashion isn't just for the racecourse.

Trick or Treat Trail (Chantelle Kuklinski)

What an awesome night Inglewood!

Wow! We were absolutely blown away by the number of trick or treaters who joined us for this year's Inglewood Trick or Treat Trail!

So many amazing costumes, not just from the children but the parents and even a few furry friends too! It was so lovely to see our little village come together for such a fun evening.

Above: Some just went a little Banana's on the trick or treat trail

A huge thank you to all the homes and local businesses who got involved. We know how much time, effort and creativity goes into making the night so special, and the event simply wouldn't be possible without you.

Thank you also to our generous sponsors and everyone who contributed donations. Your support means so much!

From all of us at Harcourts Inglewood, thank you to our wonderful community for making it such a success. We absolutely loved planning and organising the event and seeing everyone enjoying it. We can't wait to do it all again!

Inglewood Primary 150 Recap (Tracey White)

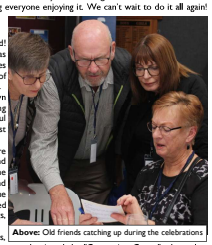

What an absolute cracker of a weekend! Inglewood Primary School was buzzing as generations of past and present school families came together to mark 150 years of education, memories, and lifelong friendships.

Our school's story has been tied to this town ever since the first plans were drawn up in 1875, opening doors in 1876. Reaching a century and a half was a wonderful chance to reflect on those early pioneers while soaking in just how far we've come.

Things kicked off on Friday with open classrooms, where visitors wandered through up to date 2026 learning spaces and checked out all the new additions in the playground like the skateboard half pipe, bike tracks, pool, playgrounds and gardens, which all got a tick of approval. Saturday lunchtime brought our official welcome with a moving pōwhiri, followed by everyone tucking into lunch out of traditional paper bags, just like the old days.

The hall and marquee looked absolutely stunning with photos, memories and props. Saturday's dinner was delicious and the crowd enjoyed the "Generation Game," where the past students proved they've still got plenty of competitive fire against the current kids! But the absolute best part of the whole weekend was simply watching old classmates catch up, share stories, and reconnect.

Faces and spaces change over 150 years, but the heart of Inglewood Primary remains the exact same. A massive thank you to everyone who helped make it a weekend to remember.

Squash News (Pauline Stachurski)

The Inglewood Squash Club will be celebrating 50 years of existence, 8th May 2027.

During the time since play started on the courts, many players, of all ages and abilities, have enjoyed the game of squash. Some socially, some competitively.

Competitive players have played matches around the country to improve their grading points. The more games won, has meant the greater the climb through the grades.

In the club we have had several 'B' Graders but just recently we have celebrated our first 'A' Grader. Karlin Snowden, a 17-year-old, has worked extremely hard spending many many hours on courts, and he has finally reached his dream.

Right: Karlin Snowden receiving a plaque in recognition of achieving 'A' Grade status, presented to him by the Club President, Darren Baxter.

Rotary News (Gloria O'Dowd)

We may have been quiet but we have been busy! We have just finished 10 days of Coffee and Cake at Windsor View Garden and have to thank Noel and Rose King for giving us the stage to raise funds for our annual donation to Rotary International project to "End Polio Now". Thank you to all our members, their family members and Moturoa 4 Square that have supplied baking for us. We have had pleasure to have many great local speakers during our weekly meetings, from Aged Concern, MS Taranaki, NPDC, The Silvers Family from the world of BMX, a future Aussie NRL superstar Jake White and special guests from Special Olympics North Taranaki.

Coming events: Our Sleigh of Gifts will be in the Christmas Parade on the 12th December and we would love locals to again help us give children of our community the Christmas they deserve. We appreciate your support and guarantee that all gifts collected are distributed where they are needed the most. We are also planning our biggest event on our calendar and that is our 31st Annual Charity Car Show. Please mark it on your calendars for the 31st January 2027. This year we will be featuring 100 years of Pick up Trucks and Utes and the day is again sponsored by Kevin from CSR Custom Street Rides. Our charity of choice for the Car Show will be Special Olympics North Taranaki.

Thank You to My Supporters (Barbara Kuriger MP)

Well, that's the 2026 general election done – or is it?

Before I talk about the election in general, I would like to thank those who once again placed their support in me for a fifth term in Parliament. It has been my pleasure representing Taranaki-King Country electorate, and I will continue to do so, as it is an honour and a privilege.

I'm very much looking forward to representing my newest town, Taumarunui which has been added to the Taranaki-King Country electorate and brings the King Country back under the same representation.

I'm very proud of my large rural electorate. I enjoy engaging with my communities, helping individuals where I can, and taking the needs of our community to Parliament to see if I can get a resolution.

I'm looking forward to learning about our newest members and how they may wish to contribute to Parliament.

This election was always going to be a tight race, but I don't think anyone thought we would be on a knife edge all election night, waiting for a result that we still don't have. Everything is going to centre around the special votes, and a seat or two either side could make a major difference.

MMP has really taken hold at this election, with seven parties now across the line. From here on in, it is important that members of Parliament start to look for similarities rather than battle over differences that sometimes aren't that big. The egos will need to go in the corner, and people need to undertake the art of collaboration and negotiation.

While each party has a different philosophy, there are many things we could work together on. Just one example would be a long-term infrastructure plan. I know it's been mentioned often lately, but it needs to happen. I know that you, the public, are very tired of the flip-flopping when there are changes of government. It's costing you, the taxpayer, a huge amount of money.

For now, it just feels like the old cheese ad on TV which says we wait and wait. Hopefully it won't be too long before a government is formed, and Parliament is back in action.

October IA5 at Mini Golf (Gay Taylor)

Inglewood First October IA5 was held at the Inglewood Mini Golf with about 30 hardy people turning up despite the weather changing to showers about 5.00 pm.

Operations Manager Fiona Evans spoke of the history of this wonderful facility, how it was built and funded by the Inglewood community with very generous sponsorship from Taranaki Electricity Trust. It is a not for profit organisation with funds going back to the community.

Fiona said Mini Golf is open every weekend, school holidays and public holidays, and is for hire to other groups after hours by arrangement. Approximately 12,000 people a year play Mini Golf, which is run by 14 Community Volunteer Groups when the facility is open.

Over $300k has gone back to these groups over the five years the Mini Golf has been operating.

Marie Pearce thanked Fiona for hosting us, and commented that this was another example of the wonderful Inglewood Community coming together to build a fabulous facility that will be enjoyed by so many people.

Next IA5: 25th November 5.15pm. Christmas Dinner at Durham Lakes Holiday Park. See our Advert below.

ETEC Update (Jane Bowden Dobson)

More than 80 representatives of iwi, community groups and landowners came together at Urenui Marae on 30 October to launch a three-year kōkako corridor project. Ngāti Mutunga hosted the gathering.

Te Ara Taketake o Tamanui, the North-East Taranaki Kōkako corridor project, is about connecting forests and people, giving kōkako room to thrive and helping the whole ngahere flourish.

The DOC Community Fund is backing the project with $603,760 in Government funding, alongside significant investment and in-kind support from partners and communities. Together, their work spans more than 46,000 hectares of native forest and associated ecosystems.

The bigger picture is an Eastern Taranaki biodiversity corridor: linking remnant forests and bringing people together to care for the places they share.

The project is iwi-led, in close partnership with Ngāti Mutunga, Ngāti Tama and Ngāti Maru. Tangata whenua's longstanding connections to the landscape and its cultural importance are at the heart of the work.

There are plenty of helping hands. Working-group partners include Tiaki te Mauri o Parininihi Trust, Mt Messenger Alliance, Te Tāmoremorenui, Taranaki Kiwi Trust, TRC, 800 Trust and Rotokare Scenic Reserve Trust, alongside other partners, landowners and volunteers.

On the ground, the focus will be on helping kōkako populations grow and keeping predator numbers low. Working group representatives will have opportunities to build skills in kōkako surveys, nest finding and banding, growing a regional team to carry the work forward.

Surveys between managed sites will help show where kōkako are moving and where more predator control is needed. By sharing what they learn, along with resources and practical know-how, groups can build on each other's efforts.

Above: The kōkako population is growing

ETEC will help keep things running through coordination and administration, building on more than 20 years of conservation work. Started by Bob and Karen Schumacher at Purangi, its work in the Pouiatoa Conservation Area now covers 18,000 hectares of conservation land, iwi land, QEII land, private farmland and forestry.

Kōkako from Hauturu Little Barrier Island were brought to the Pouiatoa in 2018, a year after kōkako returned to Parininihi.

This new chapter is a chance to learn together, strengthen predator control and build local kōkako expertise under iwi-led governance.

While kōkako are the focus, the hope reaches further: a healthier, more connected ngahere, with communities working side by side to help it flourish.

Relay For Life Taranaki Set to Bring Community Together in 2027 (Mike Walmsley)

Hundreds of Taranaki locals are expected to come together in Inglewood next March for Relay For Life Taranaki 2027, the Cancer Society's major fundraising event supporting people affected by cancer across the region.

The 12-hour relay will see teams from local businesses, schools, sports clubs, whānau, and community groups take to the track at TET Stadium & Events Centre on Saturday, 20 March. Participants walk, jog, or run in relay throughout the day, reflecting the message that no one faces cancer alone.

Cancer Society Taranaki Events Coordinator Lisa Russell says Relay For Life is about bringing communities together to support local people living with cancer, remember loved ones lost, and celebrate survivors. A Candlelight Ceremony will see hundreds of personalised candle bags light up the venue, creating a powerful tribute to those whose lives have been touched by cancer.

Funds raised from the event help the Cancer Society provide support services, health promotion programmes, and cancer research that benefit people throughout Taranaki. Registrations are now open for teams wishing to take part. For more information or to register, contact Lisa Russell at fundraising.tar@cancernz.org.nz.

Bowls News (Peter Van Dyk)

The bowling season is well and truly underway. Club Championships, Bowls Taranaki events and weekend and mid-week Interclub Competitions are in progress.

Several Inglewood Bowling Club tournaments have been completed. The annual Inglewood Timber Processors 2x4x2 tournament was held on 26th October. There was a full green of competitors and, pleasingly, most of our new members turned out. The players looked fantastic in their new uniforms. The winners were Kevin Miles and Jane Moore.

The annual Melbourne Cup Gala was on Tuesday, 3rd November. The winners of the tournament were Kevin Miles, Vicky-Lee Kennedy and Noelene Taylor. The best-dressed woman was Gail Burrows, and Andy Wisnewski took out the best-dressed man.

You are always welcome to come and watch any bowling events at the Club. Let us know if you are interested in giving bowls a go or would like to organise a work or social event at the Club .
