Dudley 125th Celebration (Sharon Birdall)

Time capsule or treasure box? When the Dudley community dug up their time capsule on Sunday 1 April many of the attendees were sure it was a treasure box. Indeed they were right in many aspects, as eyes lit up at the perfectly preserved items that were revealed. Dudley school and community were celebrating 125 years and digging up the capsule put down 25 years ago was the catalyst for the occasion. Ninety plus people attended the day which was marked with the unveiling of a commemorative plaque, cutting of the cake and speeches. But the Time Capsule was the centre piece of the day and how it delivered.

Contained within the capsule were toys from 25 years ago, advertising and newspapers, as well as books, photos and documents from the school all perfectly preserved. The highlight however were the stories and work from students who attended the school 25 years ago. Pictures and stories from these students, many of whom attended the gathering, were shared for all to hear. It was a delightful way to end our celebration. A day where the common threads of a tight and supportive community who enjoyed their time at the school and in the District came together to celebrate.

Editor's Comments

I know that it seems that everyone keeps banging on about being prepared (as in natural disasters mostly, but there is always the possibility of a man made one), but we really do need to be. As I'm writing this a storm has just hit with thunder, lightning and the rest. A tornado has ripped through the coast with homes, roads and power affected and there was a warning for severe winds later in the day forecast. We have no idea what mother nature is going to throw at us as we move. The environment has been so effected with climate change etc. So to keep banging on, get those 'G'us Thru kits checked and updated, be prepared for anything!

Shade-by The River

About four years ago I changed my mind and signed up for Facebook! I had realised it for years seeing other people almost living their lives on social media. It wasn't for me, I thought. But then there was family and friends and was posting pictures of young family members that we had not met. So I changed my mind and joined up.

We've been able to keep up with our grandchildren in Australia, our niece and nephews' children in England, and even the next generation is putting in an appearance now. Add to that we have made contact with extended family members that we had lost track of. In all it has been a good way of keeping in touch.

Despite all these benefits I am starting to have doubts about continuing on social media. From time to time I have a look on Google to find out about something or other that I am considering buying. Next time that I log into Facebook, there is the same self same thing advertised on my page. I find that very intrusive and not what I want to see. I realise that all media has to be paid for and I thought that the advertisements down the side did that job for us. You can read them if you are interested or ignore them if you want to, it's free choice. To sign them up into your home page is not what I signed up for. And what other information is being shared!

Do I cut it out and lose the contacts that I have built up, or endure these intrusions into my privacy?

Food for thought, eh?

Angie

Inglewood Volunteer Fire Brigade News (Peter van Koppen)

Every year the United Fire Brigade Association hosts the National Road Crash Rescue event to find the best teams in New Zealand. Two years ago this event was hosted in Inglewood by the Inglewood Volunteer Fire Brigade.

On Thursday 21 till Saturday 23 of June 2018, we will be hosting this event again. Teams from all over New Zealand and even some teams from across the ditch will come together here in Inglewood to take part in the event. Every team will compete in three challenges: An Entrapped, Controlled and Time Critical rescue scenario. Both medics then do a series of Trauma Challenges separate to the team events. In all these challenges the team will score points with the team that has the most points winning the competition. This team gets a paid trip to compete in the Australian Road Crash Rescue competition, along with the next placed team who hasn't been there in the last five years.

The Inglewood VFB have entered a team into the competition. The team has started training towards the competition to fine tune their skills to be as competitive as possible.

The team leader who develops the extrication plan. Two medics who look after the patient or patients. The two tool men who operate the jaws of life tools and execute the team leaders plan of extrication. And a third man, who has a support role for the tool men and will be to really good at time management and forward thinking of each step.

To even think of running an event like this takes a lot of time and effort. But as people in Inglewood will agree, we just get stuck in and get it sorted. Our brigade would like to invite anybody interested to come on down and see for yourself the teams in action. The venue will be behind Farmanis store 110 Rata Street, Inglewood (which is via Kalkaska Street) 9.00 am start till 4.00 pm all three days.

Ever thought of being a volunteer. Are you available during the day Monday-Friday. Then contact the Inglewood Fire Brigade on 756/0050 or come visit us Monday nights at 7.00 pm.

The Mamam Centre held an open night for the community to have a look around and discover who else call the centre "home". It was also a chance to thank the TET and its two local trustees Mike Davey and Karen Schumacher. The new decor is not so brand new anymore, but the centre had a facelift last year with fresh decor and new carpet thanks to personal donations and a very generous grant from TET. The Mamam Centre is owned by Inglewood Christian Fellowship who meet for Sunday services and various activities. During the week they have opened the door so that

April is a great month for gardening, lovely warm days (so far), interspersed with the odd wet day, and this makes everything keep growing. Ok, so you will find the weeds equally abundant, and you will still be mowing your lawn every week, but you will also get good growth from both your vegetable and flower gardens. Have you had time to start those lawn repairs yet, if you haven't get on to it as soon as possible. Let's re-cap as to how we should be doing it. To ensure you have a successful lawn the soil needs to be in the best possible condition to give lawn seed the best chance of germination. When starting a new lawn from scratch, spray the area to kill any existing grass and weeds. When patching your lawn, spray weeds and any grass you want to remove. Clear away weeds and grass once it has browned off. Apply a 25-30mm layer of Turf Lawn Preparation Mix to the area to provide lawn seed with a base of essential nutrients and fertiliser. Create a level and compact area for your lawn by raking, rolling and filling in where needed. Water before sowing lawn seed. Choose a fast growing seed such as Turf Superstrike Lawn Seed. All Turf Superstrike Lawn Seed varieties feature a unique treatment which encourages fast establishment of lawn seed, so you can see results in as little as seven days under ideal growing conditions. This industry leading treatment also protects the seed from common fungal diseases during establishment and reduces bird theft. Sow seed on a fine day at the rate set out on the packaging. Scatter seed in an east to west direction then a north to south direction to ensure an even spread. Rake in lightly to ensure seed is covered. Water lightly and keep moist on a daily basis during the germination period. Try to avoid making puddles with the water as this can move the lawn seed around. Don't be tempted to mow your new lawn straight away - wait until it has grown to at least 5cm so the root system has had time to develop. When you have tended to your lawn, don't forget to pop in some vegetable seedlings, so that they can get a good start while the warm weather remains. Happy Gardening!

Martins Fashions Fashion Show (Denise Loveridge)

Inglewood was treated to a fashion show on Monday night with approximately 160 people attending the fund raising evening for the Marinotto Hospital wing held at the Mamam Centre. The show with clothing and accessories supplied by the new owners Alisha Greenway and Claire Marshall of Martins Fashions was appreciated by the crowd with coats and hats. Also appreciated was the little goodie bag attendees found on their seats. The night had seven beautiful models with some providing their own catwalk entertainment which brought out more than a few chuckles. Marie Pearce was the compere for the evening, doing an excellent job also modelling Martins Fashions and Richard Jordan modelled some of the men's clothing available at Martins with his own style then escorted the models to the runway.
Raffles were available on the night generously provided by Martins Fashions, Hammer Hardware and New World Inglewood. The Mamam Centre was kindly provided free of charge. Valentine Logging supplied the refreshments with Bidfood contributing to the supper.

Inglewood First March IAS - Co-Work (Steve Wilson/Vida Harkness)

Inglewood's March IAS was held at the new Co-Work (Special Eyes) space in Inglewood, incorporating 'The Social Investment'. It was extremely well attended with over 70 people, including councillors, MPs, local businesses, educators, TET trust and locals who want to see a positive future for our small and rural towns and communities in Taranaki. Steve Wilson gave a very informative and knowledgeable outline of what Co-Work is all about.

The Co-Work space is designed as a place of collaboration, sharing, social enterprise and on-going learning. It is the physical space for the realisation of the vision and goals of The Social Investment. The Social Investment, which aims to empower small and rural communities to regenerate social and economic capital, will provide practical support and empowerment to individuals, businesses, educational institutes and organisations within the areas of Inglewood, Waitara and Stratford, to regenerate and build social and economic capital, enable local business to compete on a national and international scale, provide positive career and life pathways, retain youth and encourage local business development.

With the tools to compete on an international scale, coupled with initiatives to increase social connectedness, local communities will be able to successfully reverse the long-term decline of small New Zealand towns. If you are interested in further information please contact Steve Wilson at Co-Work, Rima Street, Inglewood.

There were a good number of new businesses in Inglewood that attended this IAS. We hope that you will all come again. April IAS's is to be held on TUESDAY 24 APRIL (note change of day) 5.15pm at the Inglewood Fire Station and Rob Edhouse from E-bikes will show and demonstrate to us the electric bike.

Squash News (Pauline Stachurski)

The Inglewood Squash Club has just completed a successful Triathlon sponsored by George Phillips Plumbing & Heating and Chesters Plumbing and Bathroom.

Twelve teams of three competed in Cards, Drags and squash over six weeks.

Lots of fun with prize giving and supper to finish the club event.

During the weekend of April 13th/14th Inglewood Squash Club will be hosting the Swap sponsored '8' Grade and Below tournament.

Sixty-four players, from all around Taranaki and further afield, have entered and the club will be busy Friday night and all day Saturday into the early evening.

Visitors are welcome to visit the club to watch some exciting playing being played by all ages and abilities. The bar and kitchen will be open.

Durham WI News (Christine Fitz Patrick)

It was wonderful to see close to a full turn out of members for our monthly meeting. Guest speaker, Denise Lowridge, shared some great fundraising ideas for Marino's new Hospital Wing Project. She also answered our questions and mentioned that they are always looking for volunteers who would like to visit with residents or take on other tasks to improve their environment. We were delighted to be in a position to make a $500 cash donation to the project fund and also provide nine batches of ANZAC biscuits which were baked for our handicraft competition tonight.

Elise Jones shared news from our Horden WI link and we also heard of Durham WI's many competition successes from the recent Federation AGMs Festival.

The Roll call was to bring the oldest item of clothing from your wardrobe. The items included a beautiful Christmas gown, two matinee jacket and bonnet, cosy egg boots, fur stoles, bright caftans, skirts, a family kilt, special dresses, stylish shoes and even a cardigan. Members also donated several bags of aluminium can tabs, used stamps and knitted baby clothes to help some of the other causes that institute support.

Marino Hospital Wing Fundraising Gathering Pace

(Dr Diane Jones)

Progress Total $126,000. Fantastically well done Inglewood - half way there, due to several generous donations and grants this week, including from the TSB Community Trust. However this is all we can now expect from the 'Big' charitable organisations, so the rest is now up to you as individuals. We will need contributions from community sponsored events. Many thanks to the participants, the attendees in the fashion parade and of course Marina Fashions for their support this last week. More fun events to follow!

A plea also from the fundraising committee to those people who are contributing - could you please fill out one of the fundraising forms or at least provide details as to how we can acknowledge you with a receipt, and be aware of your wishes if your contribution is by way of a memorial to a loved one. Thanks to you all - onward and upward (the barometer anyway)!

Success For Inglewood Indoor Bowlers At Taranaki Masters Games

(Bryan Whitaker)

Bryan Whitaker (skip) and Bryan Bigham from the Inglewood Indoor Bowling Club entered the Pairs Competition at the Taranaki Masters Games played in Stratford recently. They narrowly lost their first game before going on to win their remaining games against teams entered from Wellington, Wanganui and Taranaki. At the end of play, with no teams having won all their games played, a count back on game points had the Inglewood team placed second.
