Little Fighters Trust marked the completion of their journey to raise $50k to purchase a fully equipped care and services room at Ronald McDonald House this past weekend with the cutting of the ribbon with those who helped make it happen, in Honour of Jackson Daniel West.

While a diagnosis may be received here in Taranaki, most of the children diagnosed with life threatening and many other life challenging illnesses are transferred up to Auckland Ronald McDonald House, which becomes their home during their treatment.

A major supporter to help raise the funds for the care room is Dinnie Moesau an ambassador for the Trust, who after two years of hard work, deep commitment and enduring determination participated in the Taupo Iron Man recently. While the journey to raise the funds for the room and for Dinnie running in honour of the families the trust helps, it is nothing in comparison to the Mañi children do every day, just to stay alive.

This room will serve the Taranaki families who face life threatening illness by providing them with a home away from home. Little Fighters Trust is proud to gift this room to its community, to provide care, love and support to those who need it.

Editors Comments

Memories. Memories are one of those things that we should value the most. This weekend we had the chance to have a great night playing cards and catching up with friends and family while the children all enjoyed themselves as well. These are the type of memories along with the achievements and milestones that we would like to create for our family. As we travel through life people come and go and sometimes they leave this world for good and memories are the only thing we have left. They say you die twice. One when you stop breathing and a second time when somebody says your name for the last time. So make the time to make some good memories that will last a lifespan and beyond.

Shade-by the River

Once again we have the coalition government trying to please all the partners and ending up getting in a mess. All the promises that each party made at the last election, when they thought that they would be in opposition, are now coming home to roost. The huge target of new housing has proved to be out of reach and will not be the panacea that they had promised. The ones that have been built have been sold at quite a high price judging it by our standards.

Now they are talking about Capital Gains Tax again. It will not apply to the family home, and it is aimed at the people who buy a second home and rent it out. If an investor buys a house and rents it out, and then wants to sell the house years later he will only get the market price, that is one house-worth. What the government is failing to see is that, if they take away about one third of the rise in price in capital gains tax, then the investor will not have enough left to buy another house to rent out. So how is this going to help with the housing shortage?

Legislation is now being introduced to require landlords of rental properties to have every house fully insulated, heated and ventilated. This, in many cases, will have quite high costs that ultimately the tenants will pay for in increased rents. Of course everyone needs a decent standard of housing but it does come at a cost. So how is this going to help with the housing shortage?

Food for thought, eh?

Very Busy Year for Cue Theatre (Joan Errol)

It's only March but already the diaries are full of tempting entertainments... Harvest Festival, Womad, and new opportunities happening in this very special town that is Ingwood.

And Theatre really will have a very busy year. After producing only two plays suitable for a number of years, the society has seized the opportunity to present three. The aim of the Cue committee is to provide audiences with great evenings out, and there will be a few changes in the ways in which this is done. As they say - watch this space!

"The Ladykillers" is the first production. This is a very ambitious play for a small society but the Ingewood spirit and the hidden talents of many people make it happen. Rehearsals are in full swing, with an experienced and enthusiastic team enjoying the unique humor of the script, which has been developed from the screenplay of the 1954 movie by Graham Greene. Production dates are April 27 to May 10. We can promise you a delightfully entertaining evening.

In July, Cue will present that wonderful classic "The Importance of Being Earnest". The timeless wit of Oscar Wilde, and his comments on society and its follies is as relevant today as it was when "Earnest" was first written. This will be a winter event not to be missed.

And in November, Mary Boelen, who has directed plays for Cue for many years, will give us "We Must Kill Toni" by Ian Stuart Black. This is an intriguing comedy which is a sell out in its first season. This could be your pre-Christmas celebration - dinner and theatre make a great evening out!

And make space in those diaries for three nights of first class entertainment. Leave the real life dramas on the media for old fashioned evenings of lightweightness at Cue. You will be welcomed as always!

Gardening with Sue from Hammer

Finally, as I write this, we are getting a decent day rainfall, which our gardens and lawn really do need. Hence we're into March, and only 18 days away from Ingwood's First ever Harvest Festival, and the big weigh in for our Giant Pumpkin competition! As we get close, your pumpkin plant will probably be dying off now due to the dry weather, and time of the year, but your large orange pumpkin will still be attached to the root. Don't despair, if you haven't grown a large one, there is still competitions on the day for best carved, best dressed, ugliest. Best dressed might require a bit of imagination and creativity, but go wild with this one! Due to the large number of plants that are out there in our community growing wildly, we will need an indication as to how many entries for the heaviest pumpkin that will be entered on the day. Please re-register your entry by Friday 22nd March, in store at Hammer Hardware, or email the office at office.ingwood@hammerhardware.co.nz

At this stage, we are planning that all entries be dropped off to the weigh in area, southern end of the Railway Yard carpark, between 8:00am and 10:00am. Please enter via entrance opposite New World, proceed down to the weigh in area, close to the concrete ramp, where the pumpkin will be removed from your mode of transport, weighed, and kept on display, and vehicles can then move out of the entrance opposite Hammer Hardware. Don't despair, if your pumpkin didn't grow at all, there are still plenty of activities and competitions on the day, check out the ad in this week's issue.

Now, pumpkins aside, it is now officially Autumn, and remember, it's a great planting time, and there is always a great choice of ready to go vege and flower punnets, so use that bare ground, and get growing. Happy gardening!

Tarata News (Shelly Worthington)

This meeting was held in Tarata on 16 February. Led by Darryl Helbner from Fonterra. 35 people from throughout Taranaki enjoyed a day of discussion from a core group of organizations and country hall committee members who share a similar vision. Rural Razzle aims to build healthier stronger communities and boost the physical, mental and social well-being of farmers and those living rural. Rural Razzle has been set up to help support rural hall committees at a time when rural communities are facing many challenges. The organization wants to support and inspire community gatherings in halls across Taranaki with events ranging from pot luck dinners, quiz nights, fitness classes, interhall challenges and cabarets.

Rural Razzle is supported by Sport Taranaki, Fonterra Farm Source, Dairy NZ, Taranaki Young Farmers, Taranaki Rural Support Trust and the Dairy Women's Network. During the meeting the team from PrimoWireless gave a very interesting presentation showing what an amazing journey the company has been on. 100% Taranaki owned and operated they are working hard to bring broadband to our rural communities, connecting them to New Zealand and the rest of the world.

Alexandra from Access Radio Taranaki 104.4 FM spoke on what they were hoping for, sending the call out to the hall and rural communities to get their stories out across the airways.

We also heard from Salevi from New Plymouth arm of Taranaki Civil Defence who talked about how rural halls play a crucial role in the times of emergency.

Wheelhouse presenter Marco gave a very in-depth tour around their webpage. She took the time to show us all the options, links to funding and shortcuts to online resources, community networks and even the legal stuff community halls and groups may want to know about.

The local Tarata community put on a huge lunch with locally farmed and grown produce. Fresh salads, cold cuts of meat, fruit and blueberries through to homemade goat feta and breads filled theummies of all those attending. The sweets table was also overflowing with too many cakes and slices to taste.

Another successful catering fundraiser for our hall, raising money for the new roof.

Taranaki 3 Hour Hits Tarata (Matt Lash)

Adventure racing returned to Tarata in the form of the Taranaki 3 Hour, where 160 competitors mountain biked, trekked and paddled across a course set on the spectacular MauiRata Downs (Hocken/Coogan) farm on Toe Toe Road. For many it was their first taste of adventure racing and the amazing scenery, solid hills and fun bike will have them back for more! Competitors in teams of two, three or four navigated their way to as many checkpoints as they could in the three hour time limit and also had a few memory activities to complete along the way, with the most popular one being a short, refreshing paddle across the Waitara River in car tubes. Being able to have a race all on the one farm was a key feature and meant all the transitions between biking and trekking were all in one central area of the woodfield and for those who dared to push themselves, were treated to some incredible views across Tarata and back towards Mt. Taranaki. After the 3-hour time limit was up, all competitors were treated to a fabulous meal and drink courtesy of the Tarata Hall committee, and many lucky ones collected spot prizes from Macpac in New Plymouth.

For those who enjoyed the challenge that adventure racing brings, the Taranaki 6 Hour race is coming up on Saturday 6th of April, somewhere in Taranaki... check www.taranaki6hour.co.nz for details.

The Tarata Hall Committee would like to thank Matt and his team for the opportunity to fundraise for the new hall roof and organising such a well run event. A big thanks to sponsors for the lunch: Taranaki Laid Eggs, Silver Fern Farms, Yarrows, New World Ingwood, Farm Source Ingwood

It is with a heavy heart that I have tendered my resignation from the Ingwood Community Board as I need to focus on staying healthy and my ongoing commitments to family and business. I am proud to have served on our community board over the last six years, working alongside other Community Board members on such projects as the redevelopment of Jubilee Park playground and skate park, our 30 year community plans, the consultation and action plan of the Junction Road lease fund and many others. The projects and development of Ingwood and surrounding districts are ongoing and we will always need a voice around our community board and council table, so I hope everyone will work together to keep our friendly town vibrant and prosperous. Many thanks for all your support.

EXPERIENCE PŪRANGI

Kōkako Update and Name Change (Karen Moratti)

It is time for us to check how our Kōkako friends are doing out in the project. Sid Marsh our Kōkako expert, his daughter Hazel and Roy Blake from Methanex headed in to where the Kōkako were originally released. The team followed the birds for 45 minutes to two hours at a time and played recorded Kōkako song via a speaker. Interestingly the Kōkako from different parts of New Zealand have their own dialect (Like someone from Dunedin sounding different to Taranaki) so the Haturu call was downloaded so they could identify their own kind.

Euralist They confirmed individuals and discovered some of the Kōkako have happily 'hooked up' with a mate and had built a nest in the area that had been originally identified as the ideal place for them to settle in. Sid's own words "The habitat is exceptional!" The nest was about 20 metres up in the canopy of a Tawa tree - so it takes a trained eye to spot them.

It is fantastic news for the project team and proves our Kōkako are settling well in their new home. Huge thanks to our Kōkako Foundation partner Methanex whose support enables us to continue this important work to save our precious Kōkako population.

You may have noted that we have changed our name! We'd like to introduce you to Experience Pūangi As a project we've been through a few changes. We used to be just known for kiwi, but with the addition of Kōkako last year (special shout out to Methanex for their support with this) we decided it was time to make a change.

We're also doing some different activity with long-tailed bats, bugs and vegetation. While we'll still be focused on kiwi and Kōkako - and we are keeping these birds - we have a new logo to go with our new name. Pūangi is a Maori word which describes the mouth of the eel net. You will notice in our logo the symbol has taken the shape of an eel net. You might also see the koru which symbolises growth and the matau (fish hook) which reflects strength and good luck. And experience relates to the interesting and exciting things you can enjoy including the two walks open to the public or the education activity we undertake with schools.

You'll see the logo start to change about the place over the coming weeks. We hope you like it!

Norfolk WI News (Maureen Bunn)

Every year our March meeting becomes our "Outing Day". This year an outing to the movies was planned and eight members met at the cinema to enjoy the tale of Stan and Oily. Afternoon tea followed at a nearby cafe where we also had a quick meeting. Members reported on the February Mystery Bus Trip to celebrate founders day. An interesting round trip though the country from Bell Block to Tarata, Matau, Whangamomona, Ahitio over Mount Messenger and back home again - a trip that involved five road tunnels. A great experience!

A week later, the Regional Day hosted by South Taranaki Federation, commencing with a visit to Holford Gardens and then to the Swiss Club and entertained with music and singing. Another great day.

Exercise in your Golden Years (Diane Lathrope)

Now, I'm not trying to say that a 65-year-old who starts exercising and eating well can expect to go out and win athletic competitions against the 20-something crowd. And I'm not encouraging you to jump up off the couch and start training for a Half Marathon if you haven't run in 30 years. Wear and tear will have its effects, and we aren't designed to keep on going forever - 40 may be the new 30, but 65 is never going to be the new 25.

What I'm saying is that, with a little bit of well-planned effort, you can make the most of your "declining years" a lot less about declining, and more about staying functional, fit, and strong.

NEXTLEVEL We know that the physical decline associated with aging is not simply the result of getting older. In many respects, it's a product of becoming less active as we age. In other words, it's not aging that forces us to take it easy, it's taking it too easy that makes aging more debilitating. The human body is much better at repairing and maintaining itself when you keep it well conditioned through regular physical exercise, and good nutrition. This doesn't change when you move into old age - in fact, the old adage "use it or lose it" is probably more true when you're in your 60s and beyond than when you're in your 40s. Slacking off on healthy habits is the primary factor in age-related problems like excessive muscle loss, deteriorating bone density, declines in strength and aerobic fitness, and increased difficulties with balance and flexibility.

Fire and Bike Day (Alex Year 5)

On Wednesday 27th of February we went to the Bell Block Bike Park and New Plymouth Fire Station as part of our Safety Unit. It was super fun.

Firstly, we all assembled outside the Kiwi Room to make sure that we had all our stuff. Then we got in the cars and drove to the New Plymouth Fire Station.

When we arrived we were greeted by firemen. They told us not to be silly with matches as matches are tools not toys! We played a game where some of us had to dress up in fire suits, they were child sized but were too small. A firefighter started dressing up in his fire suit for us.

Suddenly the fire alarm went off. There was a possible fire at Francis Douglas High School.

The fire officers all moved quickly and calmly to suit up and the truck was gone in less than two minutes.

But the work wasn't over for the fire fighters because the alarm wasn't at the station and they received a MVA call. A car had crashed into a bank! The firefighters were returning from the false alarm. They swapped trucks because the fire truck they were previously in had no gear that could help in a car crash. And again they were gone in less than two minutes. It was exciting to see what the firemen do and be a part of the action. We didn't miss out on the tour of the station either even though it was so busy.

They told us that two call outs in one visit is pretty rare so how lucky were we!

Inglewood Bowls News (Janette Brocklehurst)

Inglewood Bowling Club recently held their Over 80's Triples tournament. The event attracted 16 teams which meant there was a full Green.

It is the third year this tournament has been held. It was originally sponsored by Jenny Pratt when she was the Manager at Marinoto. The last two years Summerset Mountain View have been the Sponsors along with Value Timber, Leonie, from Summerset Mountain View, spent most of the day at the Green and chatting and presenting the prizes.

The total age of players this year was 4018. The oldest team was skipped by Buster Peterson with a grand total of 267 years - an average age of 89. The most senior man was Jack Pringle at 93 and the most senior lady, from Urenui, came in at 88.

This year the winning team was skipped by Les Moratti of Leppington. Tony Walsh's team from Fitzroy was second and third place was skipped by our local man Frank Klenner (the man behind the tournament) and his girls - Margaret McCallum and Margaret Luckin.

February/March is always a busy time in the Club's calendar with several tournaments being held. Anyone is invited to come and have a look and if at all interested come and have a try.

Golf for Cathy's Centre at Taranaki Retreat (Gloria O'Dowd)

Have you ever seen a couple of cows playing golf? Well it happened with photographic proof at this year's Inglewood Rotary Twilight Charity Golf Tournament on Friday evening. After heavy rain during the day and it being basically dry from 5.00pm, 14 teams played the nine hole Tournament and posted some great scores. It was indeed an evening with a very long twilight. The day was finished with a catered BBQ dinner and on to Auction and Raffles before prize giving commenced.

Many thanks to our Major Sponsors Shelley Wilkin - McDonalds Real Estate, Kevin Walsh - Walsh Auto Services, Bev & Adrian Tee - I Drive Automotive and Wayne Hall - Kitchen Draw. Inglewood businesses were also highlighted with signage on the holes, and within the clubhouse and a big shout out to all that assisted us in raising much needed money towards a Solar installation at Cathy's Care Centre at Taranaki Retreat.

Moir, a Social Worker at the Retreat, gave us a wonderful insight on the use of Cathy's Care Centre as an office, family, meeting and counselling rooms.

The Trophy Winners of the day were Best Score - The Mighty McD's from McDonalds R/E, Longest Drive - Ag & Marine and D. Mahy (Kitchen Draw), Closest to Pin - Ag & Marine and D. Herlihy (Tandem Group).

The Rotary Cup was returned to Inglewood Rotary Club by Donald's Team (Donald McIntyre).

Many thanks to all our Sponsors and supporters with Raffles and Auction items and Inglewood Golf Club.

Thanks For Your Patience During Pipes Work (David Langford - NPD Infrastructure Manager)

About $5 Million is going into the ground in Inglewood - all in the name of clear water.

We're a few months into replacing a quarter of Inglewood's water pipes so that we can fix the problems that have caused the town's discoloured water issues. The entire project is due to take about three years to complete.

We really appreciate your patience with the roadworks, whether you're driving along these streets or watching diggers do their stuff outside your home. The speed limits and altered road lanes are there to keep the workers safe, we want to make sure they always go home safely to their families at the end of every shift, so thank you for driving carefully through the work areas. If you're walking by, feel free to say hi to the workers laying the pipes - they like being known the people who will be relying on these new pipes for their drinking water.

NPD is investing $241 million over the next decade to operate, maintain and improve the district's drinking water systems. This includes some of the extra $44 million for water resilience after ex-Cyclone Gita.

If you want more information about where the work is Inglewood is up to, we've got lots of details online at newplymouthnz.co.nz/ingledwoodWater.

Library News (Kelly Russell)

NEW PLYMOUTH DISTRICT COUNCIL

This year the children's summer holiday reading programme was done a little bit different compared to recent years. This year the "Out of the Book" programme comprised of challenges that were not only reading but also activity based. For every five challenges the children went into the draw to win a sponsored mystery prize. Ingewood Library had 74 children registered and the lucky participant that won a pair of Beats headphones was Wiremu Matheson-Julian - 11 years (pictured with his younger sibling), second prize went to Miley Marshall.

Kirkwood - 10 years who won the 2019 Guinness World Book of Record kindly sponsored by Ross Miller Books and third prize went to Harmony Dravitski - 7 years who received the two pack of Bolinda sponsored Audio Books. Those that participated had great fun and got really creative with their ideas and enjoyed receiving spot prizes throughout their check-ins, their certificate and free book. Well done to all of those who completed the programme. Keep an eye out for similar reading events coming up.
