Sometimes it's much easier to get caught up on being to focused on what we don't have rather than what we actually do.
When you are tired and feel worn down it seems that nothing is going off like it is the most important thing to change your focus to what you do have to be grateful for.
A lot of the time we take the small things for granted when they should be the main things we are thankful for.
If we think positive about the small things then over time hopefully the positivity should grow to include other areas of our lives. To give us a positive mind set.
Remember to treasure what you have and not dwell over what you think you might need.

Shade-by-the River
Our friend arrived from England and we met him at New Plymouth Airport. He was carrying his jacket over his arm when he went to get his baggage from the baggage claim. His suitcase was wedged on the trolley and we are not sure if he put the jacket down or it slipped off his arm. It wasn't until he looked for his wallet on Friday morning that he realised he had lost his jacket with the wallet zipped into the pocket.
I took several phone calls to get to speak to the operations staff at the airport and after checking confirmed that they had the jacket; it had been handed to me to pick up but alas, there was no wallet in the pocket. It took several international calls to get the credit cards cancelled, but that was relatively easy.
And now for the hard part: we decided that we should report the loss to the police. I rang New Plymouth Police Station. Automation told us to ring 111 for emergency, or hold for non-emergency. We held, and while we waited for fifteen minutes or so, it told us that losses could be reported on line. Eventually we were answered and the diverse our car somewhere else and after a long wait another body told us we should report the matter to New Plymouth Police Station. We then opted for the on-line report. That proved to be a real minefield and took ages to complete. There were several password errors and if our circumstances didn't fit there was trouble. What should have been simple became very complicated.
Food for thought, eh!

At the Inglewood Lions February business meeting 2020 District Governor Roy Price spoke about what is happening in Lions. He also gave information on the speaker that is appearing at the MD convention at the end of this month. Several member's of our club plan to attend the convention.
Our guest speaker for the night was Josh Adamson. Josh attended a 21 day Outward Bound "Mind, Body and Soul" course at Awahia. He spent five days on a boat, five days tramp and two days going in the bush with minimal food. He stated that you get to a period where you find rock bottom and then you find a level below that. Rafting, kayaking, tramp, sailing and running, pushing you to find your inner self. No phones, no contact with the outside world. Only had three fine days out of the 21 days that the course ran. Josh was a recipient of money from the Inglewood Lions towards this course. He was grateful of the opportunity and a course that he would fully recommend to others.
Our Lions members have been busy putting up the banners, helping put tables and chairs out in the morning, then manded a food stand in evening for America which was held recently in Inglewood.
The Taranaki Maze which is operated by the Inglewood Lions has been busy with many people taking advantage of the fine weather. Group bookings are popular. Keep an eye on our Facebook page for updates for late night opening and also dates and times for the Fight Night which will be just before we close for the season. For more information on the Maze Maze contact James Gilek: 027405596 or Lion's Dwayne 027 8865933.

Puke Ariki
We had over 300 fantastic entries to our annual bookmark competition and the winners were announced at a special function held at Puke Ariki earlier in February. Each received a canvas print of their design, a gift voucher, a certificate and a bundle of their own bookmarks to give to friends and family. They're now so new come in and pick yourself a new bookmark.
Stepping UP courses
We're now offering Stepping UP classes, these are self-paced modules aimed at adults wanting to learn the basics of digital technology.
The sessions are relaxed and there will be a library on hand to help. Upcoming sessions at Inglewood Library (all 9.30 - 10.30am)
11 March - Introduction to Tablets, 25 March - Learn about APPS, 8 April - Digital Banking
Bookings are essential as spaces are limited. To book on one of the sessions, come in and see us or call 06-759 6060.

Durham WI News (Christine Fitz - Patrick)
Durham held their Annual General Meeting and Prize Giving in the Durham Hall. The speedy election of Officers resulted in several changes to the top table with Diane Lithgow stepping up to be our President. Valerie Young becomes Vice-President while Karen Smith continues her sterling service as Secretary. Christine Fitz Patrick is our new Treasurer. Our committees comprises Janice Woodhead, Mirk Smith, Jan Dobbs, Diane Horgan and Megan Nielson. Elise Jones continues to correspond as our Link with Horsham WI in England (using good old fashioned snail mail). Past Durham WI President, Valma Hirst, is chief facilitator for our catering and social secretary adding to being an active representative on the North Taranaki Federation.
Currently we are running a grocery raffle to help raise funds for several of our members to attend the 99th AGM and Conference in Nelson toward the end of May. This month there are several daytime events planned for our group with a special screening of the popular movie 'Little Women' at the historic 'TEI' King's Theatre in Stratford and a Founders Day outing to 'The Croft' at Tarata. The new programme pages for 2020 were distributed by Mirk Smith who has once again done a great job of formatting and printing them for members. She also donated a lovely assortment of hand knitted beautiful woollen garments for all six competition categories (Foliage, Flower, Rose, Cluster, Shrub and Handcraft). Jean Dobbs was placed third overall. Maureen Barrn gained the most points for unplaced entries. These ladies have all worked hard to create the most beautiful flower gardens resulting in the gorgeous blooms they enter in the monthly competitions setting a very high standard.

Only five weeks to go before giant pumpkin weigh in time on Saturday 28 March, held as part of the Inglewood Harvest Festival. I am glad to hear that some of you have good size pumpkins, but can we best the 22kg winner from last year? You will need to make sure that you take care around the stem, you don't want your pumpkin to snap off, try to feed and water if at all possible, it will have certainly enjoyed the rain on Friday evening.
This week we discuss how to grow Hydrangeas, a well behaved, nice shaped shrub, add lovely colour to your garden over the summer months. They like a well-worked, fertile soil with plenty of compost, preferring a shady area of the garden but will cope with sun. Hydrangeas are also great options for pots and containers, but plant smaller varieties or use a medium to large sized pot so that the roots have plenty of room. Hydrangeas are vigorous, quick to establish and will reward you with an array of flowers with wonderful shades of lime, rose, mauve or blue. Intensely hot days can cause hydrangeas to wilt and go brown so they will benefit from regular watering throughout the summer. Water your hydrangeas in the morning to help prevent them wilting during the day. To help conserve soil moisture mulch around your hydrangeas with Tui Mulch & Feed. If you want to change the colour of your blooms, the colour can be altered by adding either Tui Lime, which will enhance red or pink flowers, or Tui Hydrangea Blue which will deepen blue tones. Changes should appear within a few weeks. Although hydrangeas don't need feeding in summer, regular applications of Tui Organic Seaweed Plant Tonic will give them a healthy boost and help them cope with the long, hot days.
You can prune your hydrangeas in autumn or early spring/late winter. Around August/September the fat flower buds will start developing so it is easy to know where to prune to get maximum flowering. Enjoy growing hydrangeas, they look great in the garden, use them for floral displays, and you can even dry the flowers. Happy gardening!

Eleven members met at Norfolk Hall as another year commences with February meeting to be followed by the AGM. Due to health issues, President Maureen had been absent for the last three meetings of 2019, so it was pleasing to welcome her return and attendance, with good wishes for a speedy recovery to good health. President Maureen chaired the meetings. Business was dealt with. Founders Day Outing February 21st, meet at the Cinema in Stratford members to contribute a grocery item to make up Raffles to be drawn at Federation AGM in March, a donation given to Australian Bush Fire Appeal, and much laughter when Betty read a humorous article from Home and Country.
The AGM wrapped up the annual affairs, with the Annual Report showing that indeed 2019 has been a busy year. President Maureen thanked her Vice President, Secretary and Treasurer for all the work achieved during the year. Officers for the coming year are: President Margaret Jordan, Vice President Nola Koch, Secretary Eileen Holt, Treasurer Nola Verry. Rolance presented the Competition Cups to the winners. Vice President Nola presented Maureen with a beautiful beignia got plate and thanked her for being President over the last few years. Jill and Dorothy served a tasty afternoon tea at the end of the meeting.

Norfolk School Bringing the Playground to Life (Andrew Georgeson)

The staff, students and community of Norfolk School are bringing the playgrounds to life! Over the past year or so we have been turning a wasteland area at the back of our school into a wetland that serves as a peaceful native planting area as well as a great learning environment for our tamariki. More recently we have created a native plant propagation area under the guidance of one of our teachers, Scott Miller. The plants we are growing will be used to further develop our own school environment as well as wetland developments in our community.

Over the summer holidays we had our brand new synthetic turf surface installed, providing a beautiful, bright fringe to the school with a state of the art netball, mini tennis, hockey and play surface. Our children love it!

The newest edition of playground and exercise options is our bike tracks and school bikes. A group of super keen young cyclists, led by Oscar George and Kyle Andrews approached our Board of Trustees last year with a proposal to build jumps and a small pump track. AG Builders and Taranaki Civil came to the party with lots of lovely clay and over the last few months we have created some awesome jumps and we have just completed our pump track! Greenway Petroleum have donated a shipping container for bike storage and our Principal Mr Georgeson has collected up thirteen bikes which we can now use at school! Many of these were donated by very generous people and we are grateful for all the support we have received.

We also love to build huts at Norfolk. We use branches and logs and we work together to create amazing structures! All in all, we are loving getting outside and enjoying what our environment has to offer!
